Over 84 businesses and individuals across Central Pennsylvania came together to support Mission Central in reaching their goal of $7,000 needed to purchase a new commercial grade mower for their facility in Mechanicsburg. Mission Central's previous mower was used and donated 11 years ago. It was in need of a great deal of maintenance and was not sufficient for the task at hand. Mission Central started soliciting donations for a new mower in early 2018. Their goal was to raise the funds by the first day of spring, March 20, but they surpassed it by hitting $7,000 on March 16.

An approximately 15,192 SF warehouse located at 2741 Turnpike Industrial Drive in Middletown was leased. The Dauphin County warehouse was leased by Radiant Global Logistics, Inc., from Heartland Realty, LLC. Ida McMurray, CCIM, SIOR, of NAI CIR represented the Lessor. Also Casey Khuri, Vice President of NAI CIR, was named as one of the 2018 Women of Influence from the Central Penn Business Journal. Khuri was selected as one of the top nominees by the judges for her leadership and achievements within NAI CIR, as well as her contributions to the community.

Spring is here. So is allergy season. Tree pollen is the biggest cause of spring allergies. People with severe grass and ragweed allergies will feel the symptoms in a couple of months. That means more than 50 million allergic Americans should brace themselves for sneezes and watery eyes. Over-the-counter remedies help some people when pollen causes minor allergic symptoms. People with more severe reactions may need to seek stronger treatment from a healthcare provider. Pollen related symptoms may also be reduced by changing your routine. Contact your local Patient First if you need help treating your Spring Allergies!
