The CPBJ Leaders in Construction & Real Estate event honors the individuals and companies who are shaping the Central Pennsylvania region - be it through design, construction, project management, lending, or innovation. "This year's Leaders in Construction & Real Estate honorees have transformed ideas into reality for businesses and for families. They are changing the landscape in Central Pennsylvania through their incredible professional success," said Suzanne Fischer-Huettner, senior group publisher of the Central Penn Business Journal. "This year's recipients create jobs and help families and organizations realize their dreams. We at the Central Penn Business Journal congratulate them on all their accomplishments."

Every Who down in Whoville is invited to Central Penn College for a Grinch-inspired evening of family-friendly food and fun. The kids will enjoy seasonal snacks, holiday-themed crafts, and photographs with the Grinch, in the college's Conference Center, beginning at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, December 2. At 7 p.m., the lovable green Dr. Seuss character will lead guests in a walk over the campus's iconic bridge to the college's Capital Blue Cross Theatre for a showing of the 2018 animated movie, The Grinch. The movie runs one hour and 30 minutes. "This holiday celebration is sure to make your heart grow three sizes that day," said Central Penn College President Dr. Linda Fedrizzi-Williams. "Last year's event was so popular, we decided to invite the community back onto our campus so we can all celebrate the season with the gifts you cannot buy at a store." Tickets can be purchased at <https://www.centralpenn.edu/2022/10/05/happy-who-lidays-grinch/>

The Cumberland Area Economic Development Corporation (CAEDC) announces the addition of Katie Gray in the newly created role of Workforce Development Manager, beginning Monday, October 31st. This position will provide leadership on workforce initiatives and partnerships, as well as identify skills necessary for job seekers to be a successful contributor to Cumberland Valley businesses today and in the future. CAEDC is also pleased to announce Janet Anderson as its new Executive Director, effective Thursday, December 1, 2022. "On behalf of CAEDC's Board of Directors, we are thrilled to have unanimously selected Janet Anderson as CAEDC's next Executive Director, tasked with leading Cumberland County's Economic Development and Tourism organization into the future. Of note, she is also the first woman to lead the organization in its 15-year history. We could not have found a better candidate for this leadership position and we look forward to CAEDC's growth and future - it could not be brighter" said CAEDC Board Chair, Crystal Quintin.

The need for volunteers at Junior Achievement of South Central PA has increased this year which is why you see so many highlighted programs. This is due to a record number of programs being requested from area schools. In order to fulfill schools' requests, we need the help of our business community now more than ever. That's where you come in! If you would like to learn more about what we do and how your company or organization can support JA and area students at the same time, please reach out so we can schedule a time to chat. We are committed to the students and schools we serve and couldn't do this without our amazing volunteers!...
