Pennsylvania State Police (PSP) host annual field trip for Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Capital Region (BBBSCR)'s "Bigs in Blue" youth and mentors. On May 13th youth and law enforcement officers in BBBSCR's "Bigs in Blue" program visited the PSP Academy to learn about law enforcement careers. PSP instructors provided a demonstration on how Troopers are trained to safely respond to calls for service, talked about the Basic Training Program for cadets and answered students' questions about their day-to-day responsibilities. Major Jonathon Rush, the Director of the PSP's Office of Community Engagement comments, "The 'Bigs in Blue' program hosted at the Pennsylvania State Police Academy was a huge success. The smiles and laughter were infectious, and the participants enjoyed the various activities. The members of the Pennsylvania State Police enjoyed the day just as much as the children and the mentors. The members of the Pennsylvania State Police appreciate the opportunity to connect with the community and give a glimpse into our daily activities. We look forward to our next Bigs in Blue event."

Good Ground Coffee Company celebrated their grand opening and ribbon cutting on May 14, 2024 at 10:00 a.m. The coffee shop employs and also teaches job and life skills to survivors of sex trafficking and exploitation. The cafe is located at 244 S 17th St. Camp Hill, Pennsylvania. Good Ground Coffee Company was founded by two recent Messiah University graduates, Rachel Beatty and Rachel Ferrence, who proposed the idea as part of a class project. They learned that employment is one of the biggest barriers survivors face on their journey to freedom and they desired to help them overcome this obstacle. The project came to fruition through a partnership with Peace Promise, a Harrisburg area nonprofit that has been working with trafficking survivors since 2008. Together, Peace Promise and Good Ground Coffee Company provides survivors with access to economic and personal development opportunities through trauma-informed employment in a space created for them.

Angela Quigley, CPA, Member of the Firm at SEK, CPAs & Advisors, was selected as a 2024 Women of Influence honoree by Central Penn Business Journal (CPBJ).
