Barley Snyder partner Luke T. Weber has been named to the Pennsylvania Bar Association's Bar Leadership Institute Class for the 2024-25 year. The PBA developed the Bar Leadership Institute nearly 30 years ago to bring together and develop future leaders. The program includes education regarding PBA operations governance and programing as well as leadership development. Participants gain hands-on experience and mentorship from PBA Board of Governors members and through networking opportunities to help build invaluable relationships amongst other association members. "I am grateful to be given this opportunity by the Pennsylvania Bar Association. I look forward to learning alongside the talented individuals in the 2024-25 Bar Leadership Institute class," said Weber. "In addition to developing personal relationships with bar leaders throughout the state, the program will be beneficial in my local service as the Vice President of the Lancaster Bar Association."

Boyer & Ritter LLC ranks among Accounting Today's 2024 "Best Accounting Firms to Work For," following a selection process by the independent research firm Best Companies Group. The list is based on an anonymous employee engagement and satisfaction survey and an employer questionnaire about benefits, policies, and demographics. "Being recognized as one of the best firms to work for in the country is an incredible distinction," said Managing Partner Lisa Myers. "Our success depends on the collective efforts of our people, and we strive to create an environment where our professionals feel valued, supported, and inspired to reach their full potential."

845 Partners LLP has leased 1,850 +/- square feet of professional office space to Tonia Anderson of Allstate Insurance at 845 Sir Thomas Court. Tonia is relocating from her previous office of 14 years. Jessica Gasper of Campbell Commercial Partners represented both the tenant and landlord of the transaction.

Central Penn College's career development experts taught recent Milton Hershey graduates and parent-sponsors how to ace an interview, craft a compelling resume, network with employers and other timely tips as they executed a first-time-ever partnership that students called "enjoyable," "exceptional," "worthwhile" and "valuable." The intensive, three-week program was offered to eight recent graduates of Milton Hershey School and four parent sponsors who were seeking higher-level career direction. They met in Central Penn College classrooms every weekday for two hours. That instruction was supplemented every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon as representatives from The Hershey Company, Hershey Entertainment and Resorts, Catherine Hershey School of Learning, and Penn State Health presented insightful tips and job openings to the students, conducted one-on-one meetings, and held true-to-life mock interviews.

Pink Hands of Hope in Mechanicsburg NEEDS HELP & Complete Senior Transitions wants to make people aware that they are literally UNDERWATER. They were inundated with 4 ft of water in their basement retail space after the storm causing them a loss of $30k. Basically it's a hot mess! Their village and amazing community of volunteers came together this week to pump out the water, wash and dry as many clothes as they could salvage, wipe down racks, walls, tubs etc. and now the work to get them back open has begun. There are some constructions costs to spray for mold abatement, replace plywood wall dividers, dumpster costs, dressing rooms, damaged stair case, shelving, display tables, and cleaning supplies. Please donate as much as possible for this great organization. Individually, corporately it doesn't matter! They play a huge role in our community and are in need of your help! Please respond to Pam Kovalewski at 717-433-4161, or completeseniortransitions@gmail.com. Checks can be made payable to Pink Hands of Hope and are tax deductible. We can provide the 501C3 form for your tax records. Mail to: 5325 East Trindle Rd, Mechanicsburg, PA 17050 Note: Flood donation

Mid Penn Bank hosted its 2024 Mid Penn Bank Celebrity Golf Classic on July 18th in support of the Pennsylvania Breast Cancer Coalition and the Basser Center for BRCA at Penn Medicine. For the ninth year, the golf classic brought together celebrities and sponsors passionate about raising awareness and advocating for increasing the funding for research, legislative advocacy, and high-quality screening, diagnosis and treatment of breast cancer. Mid Penn Bank is pleased to announce that Vikram Dasgupta has been hired as senior vice president and treasurer of the Bank. Dasgupta comes to the Bank from Citigroup, where he was head of finance transformation for treasury and trade services. His prior experience includes a stint at the treasury group at JP Morgan. He has more than 20 years of experience in the financial services industry, including management of liquidity risk, interest rate risk, funds transfer pricing, and capital planning. At the Bank, he will focus on strategies incident to interest rate risk, capital, and liquidity management and will report directly to Chief Financial Officer Justin Webb. "We are excited to have Vikram join our team," Webb said. "He brings extensive strategic finance experience to the Bank as we compete in the current complex banking environment."
